Important Travel Tips

Banking and Currency

The currency used is the Vatu. Although Australian dollars are accepted by many shops, restaurants and hotels in Vila, and a few in Luganville (Santo), they are NOT readily accepted outside of town or throughout the islands. Daily fluctuations occur, however you should work on the following approximations; 100 vatu = AU$1.29 and US$0.80.

The main banks are Westpac (with a branch at the international airport), ANZ and Bank of Hawaii. They are open 8.00 am till 3.00 pm Monday to Friday, and Westpac opens from 8.30am to 4pm Monday to Friday. There are several ANZ ATM machines in Port Vila and Luganville, Santo only. You can also get cash advances on Visa and Mastercard during bank hours. "Goodies" money changer in town is open 8 am until 5.30-6.00 pm Monday to Friday and 8.30 am to 4.00 pm weekends and public holidays. For Australian and New Zealander's please note only ANZ Bankcard is accepted, and Visa, Mastercard and to a lesser extent Amex and Diner's.

Health

Malaria is endemic and travel agents will recommend you take preventative medication. CAUTION: Most such medication increases your risk of sunburn profoundly! Bring a jug of 15+ sun cream, even in Winter. Hepatitis B and tuberculosis exists throughout the islands but should be of no concern to travellers if normal precautions are taken.

There is one hospital in Vila, one in Luganville, both with limited resources. There are small clinics and dispensaries throughout the islands. Serious injuries and medical conditions will require medical evacuation to more modern facilities in Australia, New Zealand or New Caledonia, so travel insurance is strongly recommended.

Public Transport

There are no public transport systems in Vanuatu. Privately owned mini buses are common and run unspecified routes through the municipal areas. You need only board one heading in approximately the right direction and tell the driver where you wish to stop and you will get there, albeit by a circuitous route! Taxis are also plentiful and relatively inexpensive. To get to other parts of Efate, utilities are licensed to carry passengers and can be found at the Markets.

Vanair is the only domestic airline to offer regular services between islands, though there are a limited number of charter aircraft Inter Island trading vessels also depart for the islands on a semi-regular basis.

Quarantine

All food, fruits, animal products and plants must be declared upon entry into Vanuatu. Many such items are allowed, some require a valid quarantine certificate from the country of origin.

Most 'clean' (smooth) wooden artifacts, shells, even some grass skirts can be taken into Australia and New Zealand (who have the most stringent systems in the world, so for others, it gives you a good idea). Some artifacts require a Quarantine certificate which is readily issued in Vanuatu and accepted in most foreign countries. When in doubt, check with the proprietor when purchasing and declare it upon entry. It will not be confiscated, at worst you may need to have it sprayed.

Some items such as turtle, giant clam and trumpet shells can be purchased in the markets. They have been harvested as a food source by individuals in Vanuatu, but most countries who are signatories to the CITES agreement have banned their import, so caveat emptor.

Tipping

Neither tipping nor bargaining is considered civilised behaviour. If you would like to express your gratitude for service, you might like to send a postcard or perhaps give a 't' shirt as a gift from your country. It is neither necessary, nor expected, but such small items are received with much appreciation.

Trading Hours

The National Tourism Office is open from 7.30 - 11.30am and 1.30-4.30pm 5 days each week, our Information Office is open from 7.30 - 4.30pm and on Saturday mornings from 7.30 - 2.00pm and all cruise ship days. Tour companies and many shops are open at 7.30 until 4.30-5 pm. Larger supermarkets are open until 7.00 pm. Business houses are generally open 8.00 am until 11.30 am then siesta until 1.30 pm and close again at 5.00 pm. Most shops are open on Saturday mornings and some open on Sunday mornings.

Water

With little industry or agriculture and no unusual water borne bugs, the town water supply is very safe to drink. In the outer islands, water is collected from streams whose catchments are untouched jungle, or as rainwater from roofs. Bore water is less common but safe to drink throughout. However some people react to water in different places simply because it's different. If you fall into that category, bottled water can be readily purchased from Vila and Luganville. Supplies in the outer islands are very limited.

Duty Free Shopping in Vanuatu

Port Vila is Vanuatu's only duty-free port and a shopper's delight with its colourful blend of French, English and Melanesian cultures. French perfume, champagne and patisseries can be found alongside souvenir outlets, jewellery and gift shops, and fashion wear including brightly coloured sarongs, and-printed t-shirts, board shorts and beachwear. Chinatown in Rue Carnot is a good place to look for bargains, with everything from Japanese stereos to straw hats and camping gear. To navigate your way around, pick up a free city map from the Information Centre on the main street at Pilioko House.
